Project description:

The project “Civic monitoring of the Police reform in Moldova” implemented by Promo-LEX Association is built upon the watchdog role of the civil society organizations during the implementation of the reforms, as well as on the citizens’ right to participate in the decision making process. The main objective is to strengthen the accountability, efficiency and transparency of the Police Reform in the Republic of Moldova.

Expected results:

- A comprehensive methodology for the monitoring of the Police reform.
- Six monitoring reports on the implementation of the Police reform.
- Six roundtables for the presentation and discussion of the reports.
- Nine debates with the participation of the reform implementing partners and other stakeholders on the targets, outcomes and reform process.
- An online platform for the interaction between citizens, Police and CSOs.
- 80 000 Euro offered as sub-grants during the project life (min. 8 – max. 16 sub-grants/from 5 000 to 10 000 Euro per sub-grant).
- Three workshops for Police communicators and journalists on good practices for communication and exchange of information.
- Three nationwide information campaigns about the objectives and outcomes of the police reform.
